1. BOARD

Board of the IISG

In 1988 the board of the International Institute of Social History consisted of the following members:

Prof. W.J. Wieringa, appointed by the Koninklijke Nederlandse Akademie van Wetenschappen (KNAW) (Royal Netherlands Academy of Sciences), Chairman

Prof. J.S. Cramer, appointed by the Koninklijke Nederlandse Akademie van Wetenschappen

Prof. P.G.M. Hesseling, appointed by the Centrale Levensverzekering N.V.

Drs. J. van Heijst

A. Hordijk

Prof. P.M.M. Klep, nominated by the Nederlands Economisch- Historisch Archief (NEHA)

Prof. A.F. Manning, appointed by the Koninklijke Nederlandse Akademie van Wetenschappen

Dr. W.C. Pieterse

W. Polak, appointed by the Koninklijke Nederlandse Akademie van Wetenschappen

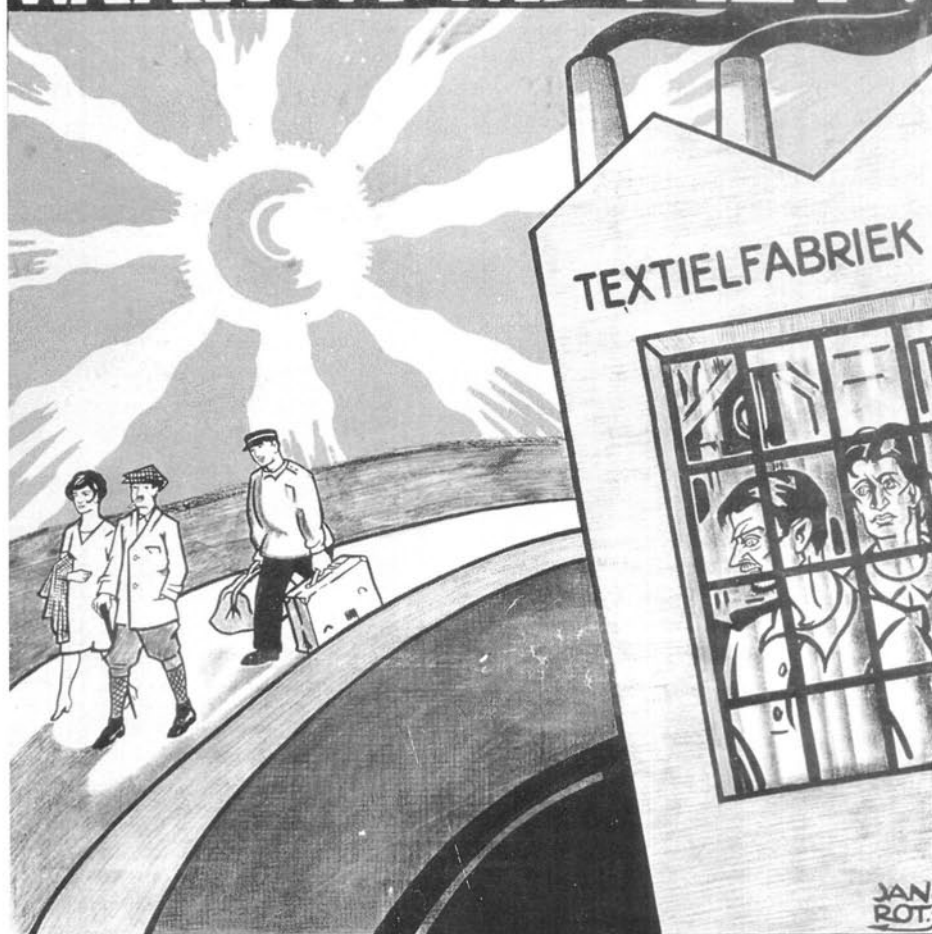

Prof. W.H. Roobol, nominated by the Faculty of Arts of the University of Amsterdam

Prof. Th. van Tijn, nominated by the Stichting Internationaal Instituut voor Sociale Geschiedenis

D. Visser

The board met on 29 February, 26 May, 27 September and 15 December 1988. The meetings were attended by Dr. E.J. Fischer, the Director, J. Kloosterman, Deputy Director and by either Dr. D. van der Mei or Dr. E. Cassée on behalf of the Koninklijke Nederlandse Akademie van Wetenschappen (KNAW) (Royal Netherlands Academy of Sciences). The staff of the Institute were represented by D.J. Mulder, J.H.G. Staphorst and Drs. L.C. van der Sluijs.

2. PERSONNEL

A. Diederich and W. Schindowski joined the staff of the IISG on 1 April; they are both archivists and documentation workers in the Information department. Dr. J.N.W.G. Lucassen, from the University of Utrecht, was appointed as a Senior Research Fellow on 1 September. P.A. Lourens joined as a Research Assistant. Drs. M.W.H. Schreuder retired on 1 April. She joined the Institute on 1 April 1964 and was for almost twenty years the head of the former department for Britain and the USA. As the head of Public Services, her last function, she was succeeded by Drs. H.A. Sanders.

It is with a deep sense of loss that we have to record the death of M. Hunink, who died unexpectedly on 21 March. She worked in the Bakunin department of the Institute, as well as in the Library, and she was for 16 years (1956-1972) the Institute's Librarian. She has worked for the IISG since 1956 and wrote Papieren van de Revolutie, a history of the IISG, as well as a number of other works. With her death the Institute has lost one of its most valued and remarkable members of staff.

B.E. van Stalborch left the Institute on 4 March; she was replaced as receptionist by J.G. van de Laar, who joined the Institute on 1 November. G.J. Barendse, the accountant, left after eight years of service. He was succeeded by S.E. Foen A Foe, who used to be the assistant accountant. His place was taken by Y.M. Bakker from 1 August.

3. GENERAL MATTERS

Important developments and activities

The year 1988 was a very busy and productive one for the Institute. It proved possible to realize many of the plans made before and shortly after the reorganization of the Institute. In addition to the acquisition, cataloguing, indexing, research and publishing which are the everyday activities of the IISG, many members of staff were also engaged in a number of other projects. One of these involved, of course, the complete removal of the Institute to the Eastern Docks area. This necessitated close involvement in the redevelopment work there, and complex and careful preparations for our subsequent relocation.

Besides this, the automation project, involving the computerization of all the indexes to the library collections, continued to take up a large amount of staff time. Only the dedication of the staff made it possible for both projects to continue without serious delay. It looks as if the transfer of the Institute will take place before 1 May 1989, as planned, while the computerization of the library indexes will be completed by 1 June, also according to plan.

The Institute has also been engaged in developing ways in which to make its entire iconographic collection available on screen. We are indebted to the Ministerie van Onderwijs en Wetenschappen for a grant which enabled the setting up of this project; this Ministry is also considering a follow-up grant at the end of the year. We would also like to express our thanks more generally to the Ministry for the rapid, professional and broad-minded manner in which it responded to our application for funding.

The year was a very fruitful one for the Institute. The acquisitions department, for instance, acquired some very important national and international collections. A detailed account is given elsewhere in this report. Nevertheless, it seems proper to mention the most important collections here. Nationally, these included the collections of the late Dr. J. den Uyl and of the Persmuseum. Internationally, the most important acquisitions included the papers of Wolfgang Abendroth, and Vernon Richards, as well as the very large and unique collection of the Informations Dienst, based in Frankfurt. Reports in the German press regretted the fact that this collection could not be retained in Germany. Finally, we would like to acknowledge the co-operation of people working in Turkey, through whose assistance the Institute received a valuable collection of (mostly) printed material concerning the Turkish labour movement. The Institute already has one of the finest collections in Western Europe in this field, and these deposits will be a valuable addition to that.

Favourable political developments in the Soviet Union made it possible to enter into a contract with the Institut Marksizma-Leninizma (IML) in Moscow in which — besides ensuring further academic co-operation — access to archival material for Institute staff has been secured. The most important change compared with the contract agreed on in 1969 is that access has now in principle been granted to all archival material in the IML. The older contract only allowed access to documents from before 1900, a restriction which presented an insurmountable obstacle to the pursuit of academic studies in many of the fields in which the Institute is specialized. Relations were also developed with corresponding institutes in the People's Republic of China. Our thanks are due in this respect to Dr. A.J. Saich, who started work at the Institute this year, and who was instrumental in securing for the Institute important works or photocopies of documents formerly unknown in the West.

In the area of historical research work continued on the international research project initiated by the Institute, 'The influence of the organized labour movement before 1914 — a comparative analysis'. This project, in which twenty-five prominent foreign scholars participated, can already be adjudged to have been successful. It is hoped that reports on about twenty-eight countries will be published in two volumes on the occasion of the opening of the new premises. Furthermore, the contacts which the Institute and its staff were able to make through co-operation with international experts in this area have proved very rewarding.

The publishing department, in close co-operation with the publishing department of the IISG Management Foundation and others, succeeded in publishing a greater number of publications than ever before. A complete list of publications by members of staff can be found elsewhere in this report. There were a number of other matters requiring much attention during the course of the year. These included the work done in connection with the merger of the Institute with the Economisch Historische Bibliotheek, owned by the Nederlands Economisch-Historisch Archief (the NEHA), and the Persmuseum (mention was made of this in last year's report), as well as in connection with the exhibitions and congresses, national and international, organized by the Institute.

Finally, the realization of a Trade Union Historical Museum appears to be within reach. Under the auspices of the IISG Management Foundation this museum will fulfil an important task in the acquisition of visual material concerning the Dutch trade-union movement and will therefore be of the greatest importance for the IISG. Such an institution also seems better suited to making the results of social-historical research available to a broader public than the IISG, which addresses itself mainly to a national and international academic community.

Generous contributions made by trade unions in the FNV, CNV and MHP federations, as well as by trade-union related institutions — like De Centrale, De Algemene Spaarbank Nederland, the Hollandse Koopmans Bank, De Volkskrant and the Spaarbank Protestants Nederland — have resulted in the provision of sufficient funds to ensure the museum's operation over the coming five years. The Ministry of Welfare, Health and Culture has made an important contribution by making available a substantial part of the sum needed to buy the building in which the National Trade-Union Museum will be housed. It is located on the Henri Polaklaan in Amsterdam and used to belong to the Algemeene Nederlandse Diamantwerkers Bond (Diamond Workers' Union). The Vakbonds-Historische Vereniging, along with staff members from the IISG, played an important role in securing funding by publishing a pamphlet which was then sent to all potential sponsors. Special thanks are extended to the Industriebond FNV, as well as to its ex-chairman and treasurer, D. Visser and W. Tuinenburg, without whose support the museum would have remained little more than an idea. It is very pleasing to be able to record that it proved possible to find in such a short time so many different organizations prepared to support such an important project. This is the kind of co-operative effort which many people, inside as well as outside the Institute, find so very stimulating.

These activities resulted in a heavy workload for the staff of the IISG and the IISG Management Foundation. This increased pressure had to be borne, not just by the staff of the collections, research and publishing departments, but also by those working in the secretariat and the general services department, and also by those involved in the management of the Institute.

In connection with the above it is no doubt proper to note that the Institute would be better served if the Koninklijke Nederlandse Akademie van Wetenschappen, which has nearly always been sympathetic to the problems of the IISG, as well as greatly appreciative of its activities, were to make a decision on the question of project workers. Until recently the Institute had a number of project-worker places, and an agreement on their future had been made even before the recent reorganization took place. Nothing yet has followed from this however, and it may be necessary therefore to look once again into the question of these project-worker places.

Housing

On 1 May 1989 the IISG will move into new premises, situated at Cruquiusweg 31, in the Eastern Docks area of Amsterdam. After the architects had completed their draft designs, the first months of 1988 were taken up with preparing the blueprints and appointing a contractor (Heddes Bouw, Amsterdam South-East). The reconstruction of the former warehouse was begun in May. Construction proceeded steadily during the course of the year, while preparations were made for the subsequent removal of the IISG to the new building. Saan, in Diemen, was contracted to do the removal work. The entire project was managed by W. Rodenhuis of Berenschot Osborne in Utrecht. A steering committee, consisting of representatives from the Ministerie van Onderwijs en Wetenschappen, the KNAW and the IISG was set up to supervise the building work.

Finances

The 1988 budget amounted to fl. 7,125,000. The Ministerie van Onderwijs en Wetenschappen made fl. 4,602,000 available through the KNAW for salary costs. This was not sufficient to fund the entire staffing level of 67.8 persons; a number of posts necessarily had to remain vacant therefore. Another fl. 1,773,000 was available for expenditure on materials, while investment in equipment amounted to fl. 150,000. The Ministerie van Onderwijs en Wetenschappen made fl. 600,000 available through the 'Intentioneel Apparaatuur Schema' (IAS) for the automation of the collections section. Another fl. 292,000 was received by the IISG Management Foundation from the Koninklijke Bibliotheek (the Royal Library) for acquisitions. An amount of fl. 100,000 was also made available by the Ministerie van Onderwijs en Wetenschappen for the purposes of developing a method of storing visual materials (especially photographs and posters) digitally and making them available to visitors on screen. Finally, the Ministry also made fl. 51,000 available to the Foundation for the purchase of the Termes collection. The IISG Management Foundation also received fl. 5,000 from the Atran Foundation.

Works Council

The Works Council consisted of the following members: H.D. Hondius, E. Kool, C. Schmalohr, Drs. L.C. van der Sluijs and J.H.G. Staphorst (Chairman). The Works Council and the Board met eight times during the course of the year.

4. RESEARCH AND OTHER ACADEMIC ACTIVITIES

Research

Research Committee

The Research Committee consisted of Prof. W.J. Wieringa (Chairman), Prof. D. van Arkel, Prof. P. Hesseling, Prof. A.F. Manning, and Prof. Th. v. Tijn. The Committee met three times.

Research staff

Drs. D.E. Devreese worked on the IISG project on the comparative historiography of the birth and development of the organized labour movement (Belgium, from about 1870 to 1914) and also continued to work on her thesis on the birth and growth of the International Working Men's Association in Belgium.

Until 1 March Drs. K.M. Hofmeester worked on the bibliography for the international comparative research project, 'The influence of the organized labour movement before 1914 — a comparative analysis'. She also helped to organize this research project and she has worked on the preparations for the workshops and publications. From 1 March Drs. Hofmeester worked on, and completed research into, Jewish workers and labour movements in London, Paris and Amsterdam from 1880 to 1914.

Dr. J. Lucassen continued the work he started at the University of Utrecht on a book of sources 'Reiseberichte 1849- 1894', as well as his study of migrant labour from Lippe-Detmold in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Besides this he has been involved in other research work, and has supervised dissertations at the Universities of Amsterdam, Utrecht, and Leiden, as well as co-ordinating the inventory of the Nederlandsch Economisch-Historisch Archief.

Drs. J. Rojahn worked on the introduction to his edition of the memoirs of Wilhelm Dittmann and prepared papers for conferences in Groningen and Bremen (FRG). Assisted by J. Gielkens he continued to work on the fourth part (1912-1932) of an edition of the correspondence between Eduard Bernstein and Karl Kautsky. Together with M. van der Linden he edited contributions to the publications which will shortly appear as part of the IISG project 'The influence of the organized labour movement before 1914 — a comparative analysis'.

Dr. A.J. Saich worked on the compilation of a documentary history of Chinese Communism in the period before 1949. This project is directed by Dr. Saich, in co-operation with the Fairbank Center at the University of Harvard, and the Sinologisch Instituut in Leiden. It will be completed in the summer of 1989. Dr. Saich also edited and worked on an introduction to The Bloodshed of the Peking-Hankou Railwaymen, by Luo Zhanglong, a book which describes the tragic events during the rail strike in Zhengzhou, China, in 1923.

Dr. F. Tichelman completed a number of publications and continued work on the preparation for publication of Socialism in Indonesia, part two of his source book De Indische Sociaal-Democratische Vereeniging. Editorial work, as well as his involvement in developing relations with research institutes in China, have also claimed a substantial part of his time.

Dr. M.C. Jansen stayed in the Soviet Union for archival research.

Dr. U. Langkau-Alex continued her work on the project 'Widerstand, Exil und Deutschland nach Hitler – Paul Hertz und die deutsche Sozialdemokratie 1933-1949'.

Research assistants

J. Gielkens completed editorial work for the publication of John Gerber's Anton Pannekoek and the Socialism of Workers' Self-emancipation, 1873 – 1960, and assisted Drs. J. Rojahn in collating, annotating and editing part four of the correspondence between Karl Kautsky and Eduard Bernstein (1912-1932) prior to publication. Together with N. Markus he assisted Dr. F. Tichelman in preparing the letters exchanged between Henriette Roland Holst and Henk Sneevliet for publication. With Emile Schwidder he wrote an essay on 'The First May Day celebration in Indonesia' for a book on the first May Day celebrations, to be published in Milan at the beginning of 1989.

P. Lourens has been adapting the computer files of the Reiseberichte and of the Lippe project for use at the IISG. He has also been involved in bibliographical and other supporting activities for the Lippe project.

N. Markus completed bibliographical work which originated in the project 'The influence of the organized labour movement before 1914 – a comparative analysis'. From April onwards he worked (together with J. Gielkens) for Dr. F. Tichelman on the publication of the correspondence between Henriette Roland Holst and Henk Sneevliet. From 12-14 October he participated in a congress on 'Kriegsbegeisterung' in Groningen.

E. Schwidder completed work on part two of Dr. F. Tichelman's source book, De Indische Sociaal-Democratische Vereeniging. Het Proces Sneevliet, started work (archive research, checking the existing literature) on part three of this same work, and began literature and archive research for the English-language version of F. Tichelman's political biography of Henk Sneevliet (especially for the chapter 'Sneevliet in Asia'). Together with J. Gielkens he wrote a contribution, 'The First May Day celebration in Indonesia', to a volume of essays which will appear in 1989.

Archives Bakounine

At the end of the year the 'Archives Bakounine' project made a fresh start. Dr. J. Lucassen was appointed to coordinate the completion of the series, assisted by Drs. K. Warmenhoven who will manage the editorial office and by researchers inside and outside the institute who will be invited to procure annotations and introductions for specific volumes. Next year a definitive plan will be presented. Drs. K. Warmenhoven made an inventory of archive material by and on Bakunin in preparation for the publication of the remaining volumes of the Archives Bakounin, and she prepared documentation for this publication. She also aided Prof. H.P. Harstick in the Slavic languages part of the project 'Ex Libris Marx and Engels' and acted as interpreter when the management board of the Moscow Institut Marksizma-Leninizma visited the Netherlands.

Drs. H. Becker continued his work on the annotation and introduction of volume X on Bakunin in Switzerland (1867-1869), and on the edition of Max Nettlau's Geschichte der Anarchie.

Dear Vernon,
Thanks so much for your letter, & the press-cuttings.
Yes, I got the copy of the memorial number all right.

Sell as many photos as you can. It doesn't cost me anything, & is all advertisement. I had a lot of fuss with Life, who wanted to send interviewers here etc., but I put them off because that kind of thing tires me too much. I am afraid some of the U.S. republican papers have tried to use "1984" as propaganda against the ~~British~~ Labour Party, but I have issued a set of déments which I hope will be printed.

Yes, send ~~to~~ me the list of questions & I'll do my best. You will understand that I cannot answer at great length. The more this issue is cleared up, the better.

w'd love to see you some time. But let me know when you're coming (I think there are people coming the next 3 week-ends) so as not to clash with anyone else, &
so that I can arrange about a car.

Yours

George.

6. COLLECTIONS

Because of greater national and international co-operation, the Institute's collection has grown unprecedentedly. As a result the collections section faced extraordinary problems in 1988, and it is envisaged that many of these will remain into 1989. The continuing process of automation, the computerization of existing card indexes, and the preparations for moving to new premises also left their mark on this section. Furthermore, vacancies for two of the three section heads remained unfilled.

Automation

The effort made to make it possible for visitors to draw early and maximum advantage from the GEAC 8000 computer system was greatly appreciated, judging from reactions to the Online Public Catalogue, which was made available in March. Computerization of the card indexes proceeded more rapidly than had been anticipated. Partially as a result of contracting out the largest part of the work to DMP in Zwijndrecht, the entire pre-1978 main book index was read in this year. This was made financially possible by the allocation of funds from the 'Intentioneel Apparatuur Schema' set up by the Ministerie van Onderwijs en Wetenschappen. Large parts of the old acquisition and periodicals indexes were similarly processed. On 31 December the bibliographical database amounted to 389,000 records, 250,000 more than the year before.

The Ministry also made funds available for research into methods of automating access to the iconographic collections, which now number about 160,000 items. This research, carried out together with Quadrant Communicatie in Utrecht, resulted in a system design in which a Local Area Network is connected to the GEAC 8000 data management system. A type of WORM technology is being considered as a storage medium. The Ministry has been approached with a view to their financing an experimental project which would involve the processing of the portrait collection, containing some 20,000 items.

The IISG's policy on automation seeks both to integrate the different accessing systems and yet to avoid a situation in which the centralization required for this affects the flexibility of local applications. In connection with this a successful experiment was carried out using emulation software which made the bibliographical database accessible by microcomputers. The aim is to install this software in combination with daisy chain boards in a large number of personal computers. Besides this, the IISG and GEAC co-operated on the development of programmes which would enable records to be transferred between the GEAC 8000 and database management systems running on microcomputers. It is also the policy of the IISG to transfer as much work as possible to the computer, and in this connection a number of routine procedures for the automatic control and correction of input errors were implemented by GEAC. There was a sharp increase in the number of microcomputers and printers available. At the end of the year these were distributed as follows:

Department	PCs	Term	Prnt	Mod
Management	3	—	2	—
Secretariat	4	—	2	1
Administration	1	—	1	1
Research	5	—	5	—

Staff members were also given the opportunity to purchase their own personal computers under an arrangement negotiated with AMCO Computers in Diemen. Altogether 23 persons made use of this.

The year 1988 also saw the introduction of CD-ROM. The Institute was asked to take part in a pilot study organized by the British Library and the Bibliothèque Nationale, which involved recording onto compact disc acquisitions in the field of historical studies for one year in the case of Paris and five years for London.

Initial contacts were made with the SURF organization to discuss the possibility of providing national and international access to IISG indexes by way of SURFnet. The Institute was represented on the SURF council of the KNAW and is now responsible for the secretarial work of the Automatiserings- en Netwerkkommissie (Automation and Network Committee) of the KNAW Institutes, which was set up by that council.

Meetings of the GEAC European Users Group in Florence and Stockholm were also attended; the IISG currently holds the chair of the Acquisition Study Group.

On several occasions the Institute was asked for advice on external automation projects. In this connection special mention should be made of the Algemene Centrale van Overheidspersoneel (Civil Servants Trade Union) in Zoetermeer, the Nederlands Openlucht Museum in Arnhem and the Sinologisch Instituut in Leiden. With this last organization a discussion took place on the possible form of a joint bibliographical database on the history of the Chinese labour movement.

There was also increased interest in the IISG's own automation projects. In connection with this visits were made to the IISG by representatives of the Koninklijke Bibliotheek (The Hague), the university libraries of Linköping, Pisa and Utrecht, the Centre for the Study of the Second World War in Brussels, the Fachinformationszentrum in Karlsruhe, the state archives of Łódź and Warsaw, and the Zentralbibliothek in Zurich.

In order to co-ordinate the different kinds of automation taking place in the Institute a three-person Steering Group was set up. The aim is also to give another ten members of staff a course on systems administration and to organize a number of internal courses for PC users in the near future.

Acquisitions and cataloguing

An extreme disappointment this year resulted from our inability to fill the vacancy for the head of this section. This meant that no progress could be made in the development of an urgently required thematic index. Although a selection procedure resulted in many high-quality candidates, none of the applicants were able to meet our requirements, which had perhaps been set too high. Until this problem has been solved – it will be one of the priorities in 1989 – the existing cataloguing system will be continued.

In the field of acquisitions a number of developments resulted in quantitative and qualitative improvements in the IISG collections. The acquisition of the archive of the former Prime Minister Joop den Uyl, the transfer of the ID Archiv der Alternativpresse, and the future removal to the IISG of the Economisch Historische Bibliotheek (EHB), the Permuseum and the library of the Nederlandse Raad voor Maatschappelijk Welzijn, meant a considerable expansion in the size and importance of our collections. This underscored the position of the Institute as one of the largest international archive and library institutions in the field of social movements. In national terms the Library compares favourably in size with even large university libraries.

The decision taken by Den Uyl to leave his entire collection of archives and other printed material to the IISG gives researchers the chance to study one of the most prominent post-war politicians in the context of the history of national and international social democracy. The periodicals collections, probably already one of the biggest in this country, will be considerably expanded; and even as it stands, the IISG's collection of 'alternative' publications is undoubtedly one of the largest in the world. Finally, it may be pointed out that the combination of the collections of the IISG and the EHB has resulted in an economic-history collection which is equalled only by the famous Cress and Goldsmith collections.

It is a pleasure to note that, besides those mentioned above, several other very interesting collections have come into the possession of the IISG and so continued the trend of the last few years. As far as the Netherlands is concerned, special mention should be made of the archives of W. Banning, Stan Poppe Sr., the Algemene Studenten Vereniging Amsterdam (ASVA) and the Christelijke Federatie van Overheidspersoneel (CFO). This last archive was acquired as a result of agreements with the Katholiek Documentatiecentrum in Nijmegen. From abroad the following are worth special mention: supplements to the collections of Etienne Cabet, Wilhelm Liebknecht, Georges Sorel and Volin (V.M. Eijchenbaum), as well as material from the Turkish film maker Nurten Tuç and the papers of Wolfgang Abendroth, Vernon Richards and the FIDEF, the Turkish emigrants organization in the Federal Republic of Germany. More attention than in previous years has been given to the possibility of systematic completion of certain collections through exchange agreements with other organizations. Such agreements were made with the Arbejderbeægelsens Bibliotek og Arkiv (Copenhagen), the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences (Beijing), the European Trade Union Institute (Brussels), the Institut für Marxismus-Leninismus (East Berlin), the Institut Marksizma-Leninizma (Moscow), the Institute for Marx-Engels-Lenin-Mao Zedong Thought (Beijing), the Istituto socialista di studi storici Filippo Turati (Florence) and the Istituto universitario europeo (Fiesole). Existing ties in this field with the Bibliothèque de Documentation Internationale Contemporaine (Nanterre) and the Fondazione Giangiacomo Feltrinelli (Milan) were strengthened. With an eye to the execution of these and other agreements, an Exchange Bureau was set up in the middle of 1988.

These co-operative efforts are all the more important because of the sharp reduction in the number of books and periodicals donated to the Institute in the last few years. Further, in the past we have failed to keep pace with all the newly published literature; a decision was therefore made to devote a greater proportion of resources to the acquisition of books so that the amount available for acquisitions could at least be restored to the level of a number of years ago; this enabled the Library to subscribe to a number of long-delayed supplements to the current periodicals collection. Besides 391 monographs received as gifts, the Institute bought 3503 new books and pamphlets, while subscriptions to 272 new periodicals were taken out, and 74 were ended.

The growth sketched above, which coincided with the introduction of new and far-reaching technology, as well as the problems presented by having to move more than thirty kilometres of fragile material, obviously placed high demands on the resilience of both the department as a whole and on its individual members. The latter especially deserve much credit for the way in which they produced exceptional results, sometimes under great pressure of time and circumstance.

Library and archives technical department

In the course of the year it was decided that the archives section should give priority to starting work on the editing of a guide to international archive collections. Work on this proceeded rapidly and the book will be ready by the autumn of 1989. Besides this a new edition of a guide to archives in the Netherlands is being prepared. A further improvement in access to the archive collections was made possible by the publication of a microfiche edition of a large number of the inventories, prepared in co-operation with the Inter Documentation Company (IDC) in Leiden.

The IISG received about 600 metres of new archives and collections in 1988. A detailed description of these can be found towards the end of this report. Arrangements for the removal of the archives to the new building on the Cruquiusweg were made by E. Koen. Substantial parts of the archives were packed by H. Kroon and A. Baks, including parts of the NVV archive, the WBS archive, the NAF archive, the Works Council archive of Ford Amsterdam and parts of the PSP archive.

Inventories, placement lists or temporary lists of the archives of the following persons or organizations were completed: Biard, R. (rep.), A. Constandse, C.N.M. Commandeur, C.P.N.-branch Bijlmermeer, the Federatie van Kunstenaarsverenigingen, A. Hamon, Kamphuis-Engel (Rooie Vrouwen/PvdA-Breda), the Nederlandse Stichting Samenwerkende Koppelsegemeenten Bangladesh, E.S.Pankhurst, Partij van de Arbeid – District Amsterdam (1970-1982), Partij van de Arbeid – Gemeenteraadsfractie Amsterdam (1972-1977), Pacifistisch Socialistische Partij (PSP), S. Poppe sen., Postal, Telegraph and Telephone International (PTTI), J.M. Romein, R. Soeter (C.P.N.- District Utrecht), the Vereniging van Dienstweigeraars, H. van Wijk and the X-Y Beweging. A list was also made of the tapes present in the archives of the Socialist International, while work on the leaflet collection was continued.

During the course of the year 17,881 titles of printed material were made accessible to the public, about twice the number before the introduction of automated techniques (1987) and five times the number possible before the first reorganization measures were implemented (1986). The largest part of this work was handled by the registration section, which integrates acquisition and indexing. This section, which also handles requests for review copies for the International Review of Social History, for the first time managed to start work on small incoming deposits, in addition to its regular work.

The control section had the specific task of supervising the computerization of the card indexes relating to the book collection. This work in fact proceeded more rapidly than was anticipated, so that it became possible to include part of the catalogue of the so-called Co-operation Library in the project. The projects section supervised the extremely complicated task of computerizing the index to the periodicals collection. Furthermore, this section succeeded in the computerization of the so-called Schärf collection of indexes. Since automation started four card indexes have been completely replaced and by the beginning of 1989 at least another seven will follow.

A separate catalogue was published of the fine collection of printed material relating to early British social and economic history, most of which comes from the Kashnor collection (Huub Sanders (ed.), Books and Pamphlets on British Social and Economic Subjects 1650-1880, Amsterdam, Stichting beheer IISG, 1988, XXIII + 514 pp.).

Administration and public services

It is clear that the Institute functions mainly as a reference library: the nature and state of most of the material, as well as the work methods of most of the visitors, make this the obvious choice. For this reason it was decided this year to revise the regulations governing the type of material which can be borrowed: it had hitherto been possible to borrow material dating from 1945 or after. From now on, no works published before 1970 will be lent externally. In connection with the move to other premises borrowing facilities were completely suspended for visitors from December onwards.

There were 6015 (1987: 6155) registered visitors to the reading room. These included 341 (306) researchers from overseas, who stayed at the Institute for periods varying from a few days to a number of months. They came from the following parts of the world: Europe 237 (203), distributed as follows: 10 (4) from Northern Europe, 152 (147) from Western Europe, 36 (23) from Southern Europe and 39 (29) from Eastern Europe; USA/Canada 36 (14), Latin America 10 (13), Near East 41 (64), Far East 15 (9), Australia 2 (2). Besides the individual visitors another 13 groups, 267 persons in all, were received.

Visitors requested 9095 (9203) items from the archive, 8949 (8944) books and pamphlets, 8675 (8251) periodicals, 402 (1410) annual reports, 323 (466) microfilms, 2863 (3115) microfiches and 135 (167) document dossiers. Another 684 (701) requests came in through the inter-library lending service.

The coming move made it desirable to repack substantial parts of the archive and to complete the shelf marking of the old periodicals collection. Storage arrangements in off-site storage locations were also partially revised.

A special complication arose when the available space in the premises on the Kabelweg became almost entirely exhausted, while at the same time storage facilities in the Ceres building were withdrawn, with little prior warning. We are grateful for the assistance of the Amsterdam municipal archivist in overcoming these — fortunately temporary — problems.

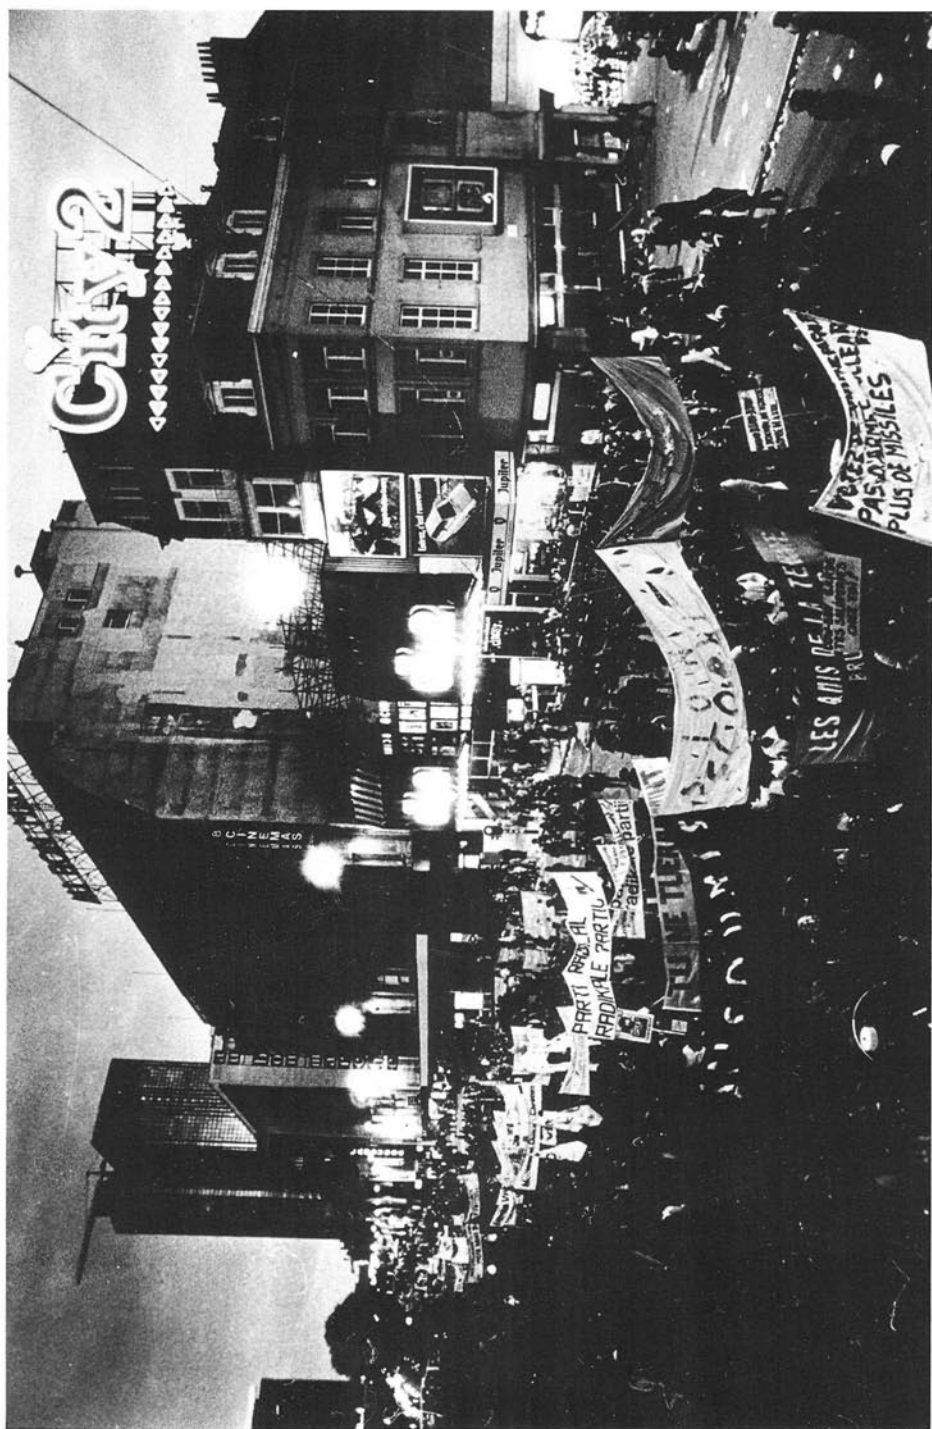

As far as conservation is concerned it is clear that a relatively large part of the collection is suffering badly as a result of the disintegration of paper manufactured since the second half of the nineteenth century. The atmospheric conditions in the present storerooms have contributed to this process to some extent, although research undertaken in co-operation with the restoration departments of the Koninklijke Bibliotheek and the Algemeen Rijksarchief has shown that damage from mould need not be feared. The acidification of the material, however, is unstoppable. Although the Institute spends fl. 300,000 annually on conservation measures, this amount is far too little. Truly effective measures are only possible if facilities for mass conservation are made available. It has been decided, while awaiting the opportunity to implement the necessary conservation measures, to give a higher priority to the filming of often-used material, so that it can be withdrawn from lending. For this purpose several contracts were signed with Kodak Nederland, which made 482 films containing 283,499 (1987: 78,849) pages of material. The larger projects included the filming of Dutch trade-union periodicals and the duplication of archive safety films, both of which will make the lending of original archive material unnecessary.

The book-binding department dealt with 144 printed works and prepared 6 collections for filming. In this department, too, as much routine work as possible was contracted out to the private sector and 3141 (1311) books and pamphlets and 488 (435) periodicals were bound under these arrangements. This included 2038 books and pamphlets which received simple conservation treatment in preparation for the coming move to the new premises.

To allow the photographic section to proceed with the necessary safety filming, the storing and production of microfiches was similarly contracted out (to Micorcenter, Eindhoven), as was the photographic work for visitors (to the Wim Dingemans studio, Amsterdam). The photographic section itself produced 10,730 microfilm shots, 17 duplicate films, 2309 photographs and slides, 2075 negatives, 6223 reader-printer copies and 268,067 xerox copies.

As part of a co-operative project with the Bibliothèque Nationale and others, the Russian émigré periodicals from before 1917 were put on microfiche by IDC; the titles are available in a commercial edition.

7. LIST OF THE MOST IMPORTANT ACQUISITIONS

Archive acquisitions

Abendroth, Lisa: the papers of her husband, Wolfgang Abendroth.

Algemeene Christelijke Federatie van Bonden van Personeel werkzaam bij de Overheid en in de sectoren Gezondheidszorg en Maatschappelijk Werk (CFO): the archive of the management, health and social welfare unions, acquired as a result of agreements with the Katholiek Documentatiecentrum in Nijmegen.

Algemene Vereniging Volksbond tegen Drankmisbruik: the archive.

Altena, B.: a supplement to the papers of F. Domela Nieuwenhuis.

Alvarez de García Oliver, P. via M.R. Korolitski: manuscript of the complete version of El Ecode los Pasos by Garcia Oliver.

Ameringen, A.A., Wassenaar: documents on the Wiardi-Beckman Stichting.

Anonymous: a collection of 190 leaflets concerning the day-to-day development of the strike of SNECMA-Villaroche (March to June, 1988).

Baas, T.: a supplement to the archive of the Utrechtse Muurkrant.

Barnouw, David: press clippings relating to Latin America 1969-1988.

Biekaart, K.: material on the referendum in Chile.

Berreby, Gerard: a supplement to the papers of Nicolas Lazaréwitch and Ida Mett, a typewritten report of the second Zimmerwald Conference in Kienthal (April).

Beyhaut, G.: a large supplement to his collection of books.

Biard, Roland: correspondence, manuscripts and printed material 1945-1980.

Bianco: some rare French libertarian periodicals.

Bluf!, the editors of: the archive.

Through Boer, A.F. de: the archive of the Vereniging Raden van Arbeid.

BONK: documents and printed material of the Bonk-Samenwerkingsverband.

Brinkkemper, H.: documents relating to the Internationale Orde van Goede Tempeliers in the Netherlands (IOGTN).

Cadat, B.-Y.: documentation concerning the journey of equality (1985) organized by S.O.S.-Racisme ('don't touch my buddy').

Cermtri, Paris: a collection of internal bulletins of the PCI, and other printed material.

CGT, Paris: a collection of printed material.

CGT-Force Ouvrière, Paris: a collection of books, pamphlets and congress reports.

Commandeur, S.P.: a supplement to the papers of his father C.N.M. Commandeur.

Costa y Font, J.: copy of the manuscript of his book La Otza Revolució desconocida on collectivization in Catalonia 1936- 1939.

Dam, A.G. van: some of his papers and a supplement to the papers of L.M. Hermans.

Dam-Schermerhorn, Ms. L.C. van: letters, pictures and other documents concerning D. Schermerhorn and F. Schermerhorn-Mus.

Dauphin-Meunier, fam. of A., via H. Wedman: documents concerning C. Cornelissen.

Through Dekema-Klaasse, Ms. N.W.: archive of the Algemene Nederlandse Vereniging voor Sociale Gezondheidszorg (ANVSG), Rotterdam.

Demant, Peter Robert: source material used for his thesis 'Ploughshares into swords: Israeli settlement policy in the occupied territories, 1967-1977', Amsterdam, 1988. Consists of documents and copies of translated documents of the Gush Emonim 1973-1978 and copies of transcriptions of tape-recorded interviews 1982-1986.

Digitale La, Quimperlé (France): a collection of their publications.

Duboin, Marie-Louise: a collection of La Grande Relève covering the years 1950-1954.

Dupuy, D.: several rare French libertarian periodicals.

Dijkstra, M. and C.: a collection of rare books and pamphlets.

Eijchenbaum-Volin, Léo: the papers of Vsevolod Eijchenbaum-Volin 1901-1948.

Espigoulet, fam. of Antoine: manuscript of his memoirs as a communist militant.

European Trade Union Institute: documents and printed material.

Federatie van Kunstenaarsverenigingen, Amsterdam: archive of the European Section of the World Crafts Council.

Ferares, M.: documents from the Revolutionair Communistische Partij; documents from the Revolutionary Marxist Tendency in the Fourth International; the archive of the Sociaal-Democratisch Centrum within the PvdA.

Fontanillas, A.: copies of the archive of her (libertarian) family, especially about Mexico c. 1910; pamphlets, periodicals.

Gaag, P. van der: a supplement to the papers of A.L. Constandse.

Geers-Jibben, Ms. I.: a supplement to the archive of G.J. Geers.

Goes van Naters, van der: a supplement to his papers.

Guerrier, Daniel: a collection of books by Daniel Guérin.

Guilde, la, Paris: documents from the archive of the publishing house Marcel Rivière concerning Georges Sorel.

Grauer, Ms. M.: copy of her unpublished thesis on R. Rocker.

Hafeman, Helmut, Mainz: collection of the periodical Friedlicht.

Heerma van Voss, A.F.: some personal documents of Léo Levy 1922.

Hering, B.: correspondence with Pramudya Ananta Tur 1983, 1986-1988.

Hoekema, C.P.: archive of the Convent voor een Nieuw Politiek Ethos, for the most part financial documents 1959-1971.

Hoogen Stoevenbeld-Blom, Han: documents from the Pacifistisch Socialistische Partij (PSP) in Amsterdam; documents from the PSP-women; documents concerning PSP activities relating to the elderly; a supplement to the papers of Henk Hoogen Stoevenbeld.

Hoorn-Elferink, Ms. A.A. van: a letter from F. Domela Nieuwenhuis and a photo.

Hugenholz, the family: a supplement to the papers of J.B.T. Hugenholz.

Inan, I.: photocopies of his papers.

Industriebond-FNV: a supplement to the archive.

Industriebond-FNV: documents from the Nederlandse R.K. Metaalbewerkerbond, the Nederlandse R.K. Textielarbeidersbond St. Lambertus, including the Hilversum branch of that union, the Nederlandse R.K. Naaisters- en Kleermakersbond St. Gerardus Majella, and the R.K. Naaisters- en Kleermakersbond, St. Martinus branch in Utrecht.

Industriebond-FNV Distrikt 7, Amsterdam: its archive.

Jambroers, Ms.: letters by P.J. Troelstra, G.W. Melchers and H. Polak to Tj. Westra and his widow, 1905-1922.

Jong, fam. W.: through the mediation of G. Nabrink, a supplement to the papers of W.J. Jong consisting of documents on the peace movement.

Kause-van Bergen, Chaja: copies of letters from her father Isaac Simon van Bergen, written in concentration camps during World War Two, and other material.

Communism & Women.

I Difference of point of view whence Communist looks at women.

A old view of women

- 1) ~~idle~~ ~~for~~ delicate.
parasite
- 2) Servant to a) family
b) man.

In 2) Woman Productive

child bearing & rearing

cooking

spinning weaving

house cleaning farming - etc.

But v. little paid work.

Selling Property of family or property of husband.

Not an independent earner

Selling of girl children as slaves

Selling of child labour.
Infiltrate parents.

Young girls of poorer classes become maids, nurses, & cooks sewing, waiters etc. to large families.

Progress of paid work for women -

Educated women become in Governments, teachers in small schools etc.

But, 1) Obeyed. like Calibale
Virgin require <sup>great</sup> work on marriage

2) Looked down upon because they could not get husbands.

Communist view point
B All individuals, male
